

CENFROCAFE - (CBC PE-BIO-141) (GrainPro)

CENFROCAFE is not only one of the largest and strongest cooperatives in Peru, it's also one of the most organized, and producing the best quality coffee year in and year out. They have programs in place to increase production by providing organic fertilizers and in monitoring plant health on farms, which is very important with the prevalence of coffee-leaf rust in recent years.

CENFROCAFE as a group produces about 120,000 quintales of coffee each year (1 quintal = about 100 kilograms), which makes it one of the leading cooperatives in the country in terms of volume, as well. The members' average production per hectare is about 22 quintales, which is relatively high for organic coffees. The co-op is also one of the top exporters in Peru, a country otherwise known for its more commercial-grade coffees. The group's coffees have regularly placed in the top in national competitions, and not only do they produce solid-performing full-container lots, they also have fantastic microlot potential with individual farmers focusing on varieties and processing more and more.

For more information about coffee production in Peru, visit our Peru Origin Page.

ID# 10857

Origin	Peru
Region	Cajamarca
Farm	2,000 smallholder farmer members
Variety	Bourbon, Caturra, Typica
Altitude	1200-2200 masl
Proc. Method	Washed

The Cup

" Sweet with citric acidity and a smooth mouthfeel; chocolate, melon and almond flavor with an herbal aftertaste."

Gallery CENFROCAFE - (CBC PE-BIO-141) (GrainPro)

