

Huehuetenango - Waykan (GrainPro)

In the Maya Q'q'jobal dialect from Huehuetenango, "Waykan" means "star (or light) that shines in the sky at night."

The producers are situated in the municipalities of Chajul, Quiché, Cotzal, and Nebaj and the represented ethnicities are Ixil, Kiche, Q'anjobal, and Guatemalan Mestizo. Waykan coffee is produced in 55 different communities.

Today Guatemala has a very strong in-country support system for coffee producers. There is also a strong marketing presence to promote Guatemalan coffee globally. Guatemala accounts for 2.5 percent of the world's total coffee production; the country's coffee has been a staple of Café Imports' offerings since our humble beginnings, and seeing the increase in quality has been heartwarming. We can't think of many other origins where excellent coffee is in such high abundance.

Marathon cuppings in Guatemala are invigorating and exciting; quite literally there is an incredible amount of low-hanging fruit in Guatemala, including this exceptional Regional Select Waykan.
